Empowerment is defined as the process of becoming stronger and more confident, especially in controlling one's life and claiming one's rights.

Community Psychologists on Empowerment

“Rappaport (1981) proposed that empowerment should be a primary focus of Community Psychology. He believed that empowerment is about helping those with less than their fair share of power to understand their own situation and gain more power.

Julian Rappaport, American Psychologist

Empowerment, which means gaining greater influence and control over important matters in one’s life and environment.

Individual empowerment allows people to exercise control and increase self-efficacy. Self-efficacy can be described as developing a sense of personal power, strength, or mastery that aids in increasing one’s capacity to act in situations where one feels a lack of power.”

Fabricio E. Balcazar; Christopher B. Keys; and Julie A. Vryhof

The purpose of each of the ten components of CAR resources is listed below.

Adult Citizens Returning to Communities after Incarceration - These resources will help in finding specific services that are needed by returning citizens. These organizations and agencies provide many different services in one location.

Holistic Health - Physical and mental health agency resources provide much needed help in cases of trauma, physical illness, and drug and alcohol counseling.

Community Beautification and Gardens - These resources offer opportunities for returning citizens to become a part of community gardening and other beautification programs located in their neighborhoods.

Education - These resources include schools, educational programs, and training classes for specific skills and companies.

Churches and Faith-Based Organizations - There are churches and other faith-based institutions that provide many different services and guidance to returning citizens.

Social Justice and Policy - Community and police partnerships, criminal justice system reform, community activists, and politicians establishing second chance policies will allow returning individuals and their advocates to ensure a system that is fair and equitable for all citizens.

Community Organization and Agencies - Finding reentry services in the community in which you live can help returning citizens in locating immediate assistance and resources.

Employment, Placement, and Training - Training as well as placement programs provide individuals with marketable skills as well as actual employment opportunities that can make a difference.

Sense of Belonging/COMMUNITY - You can't do it alone! Services are available for you and your family to learn how to work together in helping returning citizens be successful for a lifetime.

Housing and Shelters - Having a place to call home is one of the first and basic needs of returning citizens. These resources are available to help to locate suitable housing for returning citizens .

Please note: There are certain resources that are conveniently listed under more than one component.
